COVERAGE

RCIS covers select extra field expenses and reconditioning expenses for grapes that have been laid on trays for the purpose of producing raisins when, during this policy's insurance period the grapes:

- Receive direct rainfall while on trays in the insured vineyard,
- require slipping/barring, additional rolling and unrolling, or additional turning to minimize damage due to direct rainfall,
- are delivered to a raisin processor and fail a full USDA inspection for direct rain damaged defects,
- and are reconditioned, using either hot water wash and dry, or dry-process method or reconditioning completed by a bona fide reconditioner, as determined by RCIS.

All typical raisin grape varieties are insurable except Zante currants and grapes that had table grape cultural practices applied. This policy does not insure against lost production or a decrease in the value of raisins.
